DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-13 are pending and have been examined.
2. Claims 1-13 are allowed.

Priority

3. Acknowledgment is made of applicant's claim for foreign priority under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d). In light of the Petition for an Untimely Delayed Foreign Priority Claim under 37 C.F.R. §1.55(c) granted August 2, 2006 applicant is entitled to a foreign priority of April 10, 2003. As such prior art considered under the dates provided by 35 U.S.C. §102 must predate April 10, 2003.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The Examiner has done a thorough search and found no prior art of record, alone or in combination, that teaches or fairly suggests the limitations set forth in the system of claim 1 or the method of claim 8. Huang et al. (US 6,931,475) represents the closest prior art of record in that both the claimed invention and the disclosure of Huang relate to associating a particular server with I/O peripherals upon the pressing of a button. The disclosure of Huang generally discloses an I/O unit access switching system, comprising:

Art Unit: 2112

1. a plurality of servers (Fig. 2, 200) each comprising a control module (Fig. 2, 210) and an intelligent platform management interface (IPMI) having a baseboard management controller (BMC) (interpreted as processor 220 of Fig. 2);
2. at least one input device (col. 3, ll. 10-11);
 - at least one output device (col. 3, ll. 10-11).

The disclosure of Huang fails to teach and/or fairly suggest a switching device comprising a microprocessor unit, an input function switching unit and an output function switching unit. Instead Huang discloses a Management board (Fig. 2, 260) that accepts interrupts from the control module and responds by sending an encoded control signal to input/output function switching unit in each server so that peripheral devices may control/monitor the selected server. Therefore since the switching devices are located within the servers and not in a stand-alone unit and since the teachings of Huang do not suggest placing the switching units in a stand-alone unit, claims 1-13 of the instant application are considered allowable over the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bobbitt et al. discloses a KVM card, for a blade server, that allows a plurality of server cards to share peripheral devices. The disclosure of Bobbitt fails to disclose or teach each server card having a control module and baseboard management controller that allow a user to select a server card to control and/or monitor.
